Lesson Plans for Teaching Writing

Edited by Chris Jennings Dixon

Why do students often graduate from high school unprepared for college writing?
and
What can we do about it?

These are the questions that a group of classroom teachers set out to explore. Over the course of seven years, a group of middle, high school, college, and university teachers participated in a federally funded writing coalition project to implement innovative approaches to teaching writing. Together they developed this series of lesson plans designed to make writing both fun and an integral part of diverse curricula.

Developed by real teachers in real classrooms, the lessons include all the background and preparation you need to implement the strategies in your classroom. They center around seven often-taught categories: writing process, portfolios, literature, research, grammar, writing on demand, and media. 249 pp. 2007. Grades 8–College. ISBN 978-0-8141-0885-7.
