

CALL FOR NOMINATIONS

2009 CEE NATIONAL TECHNOLOGY LEADERSHIP AWARD

Conference on English Education

Shaping ELA teacher education since 1965.

Deadline: Friday, January 15, 2010

Each year, the Conference on English Education (CEE) identifies a recipient of the CEE National Technology Leadership Award. All NCTE members are encouraged to nominate a colleague whose Convention presentation demonstrates cutting-edge and generative methods of integrating newer technologies into teacher education courses or workshops. The CEE Technology Commission, whose members judge the nominations, strongly encourage presenters to self-nominate.

Although all nominations will be considered, the commission is particularly interested in identifying outstanding work in teacher education courses or professional development programs. In addition to teacher education faculty and graduate students, Pre-K - 12 teachers and higher-education staff may also be nominated.

The CEE Technology Commission seeks to identify presentations that...

1. Focus on theoretically sound and research-based methods of teaching the English language arts/literacy in which the technology is a secondary rather than primary focus;
2. Use technology to create beneficial opportunities for English language arts/literacy learning that could not exist without the technology;
3. Improve students' mastery of English language arts/literacy learning;
4. Use technology to address challenges faced by many English language arts/literacy teachers and/or students or the broader community;
5. Introduce new methods for teaching the English language arts/literacy with the use of newer technologies in ways that show promise of working well in widely divergent educational settings;

Nominations must be e-mailed to Committee Chair, Carl Young (carl\_young@ncsu.edu), no later than January 15, 2010. Each nomination must include the following:

1. Presenter's name and contact information (home and school address and phone numbers),
2. Session title and description (and, if possible, the session number, day and time),
3. A copy of the session proposal, and
4. A detailed statement explaining how the presentation illustrates the characteristics the award is intended to identify (see 1-5 above).
