TE TYC Teaching English in the Two-Year College

Patrick Sullivan Wins the Mark Reynolds TETYC's Best Article Award for 2012

The winner of the Mark Reynolds TETYC's Best Article Award is "'A Lifelong Aversion to Writing': What If Writing Courses Emphasized Motivation?" by Patrick Sullivan, Manchester Community College, Connecticut. The article appeared in the December 2011 issue.

The Best Article Award Committee members were Tim McLaughlin (Chair), Justin Jory, Jill Kronstadt, and Greg Shafer. The award, which includes a plaque from the journal office and a cash prize provided by past editor Nell Ann Pickett, was presented at the Conference on College Composition and Communication's annual meeting in St. Louis in March.