

PRESS RELEASE

THE TWENTY-SECOND NATIONAL AFRICAN AMERICAN READ-IN

Join over a million readers in the
Twenty-Second National African American Read-In

In February 2011, you may hold an African American Read-In event any day of the month

Tuesday, February 1-Monday, February 28

Schools, churches, libraries, bookstores, community and professional organizations, and interested citizens are urged to make literacy a significant part of Black History Month by hosting and coordinating Read-Ins in their communities. Hosting a Read-In can be as simple as bringing together family and friends to share a book, or as elaborate as arranging public readings and media presentations that feature professional African American writers.

To be counted as participants, simply:

- Select books authored by African Americans;
- Hold your event during the month of February; and
- Report your results by submitting the 2011 African American Read-In Host Report Card.
- You must submit a separate Host Report Card for each Read-In held.

In 1990, the first African American Read-In was sponsored by the Black Caucus of the National Council of Teachers of English. In 1991, the National Council of Teachers of English joined in the sponsorship. The Read-In has been endorsed by the International Reading Association. Over a million readers of all ethnic groups, from 48 states, the District of Columbia, the West Indies, and African countries have participated. The goal is to make the celebration of African American literacy a traditional part of Black History Month activities.

TWENTY-SECOND NATIONAL AFRICAN AMERICAN READ-IN

Tuesday, February 1-Monday, February 28, 2010

HOST INVITATION

You are invited to celebrate Black History Month by joining and hosting a Read-In as part of the twenty-second national African American Read-In. Originally sponsored by the NCTE Black Caucus and the National Council of Teachers of English (NCTE), it also has been endorsed by the International Reading Association.

WILL YOU CONSENT TO SERVE AS A READ-IN HOST?

Read-In hosts are selected for their interest, experience, and knowledge in organizing groups, selecting appropriate reading materials, and promoting literacy. The main responsibility of hosts is to plan a Read-In, including selecting a site and inviting participants. Hosting a Read-In can be as simple as gathering with family and friends to share books, or as elaborate as arranging large audiences to hear professional writers read their work. Many Hosts have found it useful to rearrange the meeting time of an organized group to coincide with the date and time of the African American Read-In. Others have solicited funds to purchase books and refreshments. Read-Ins are varied, so do what you do best.

We only ask that reading materials be selected from works authored by African Americans, professional or novice writers, and that each host return, after the event, the Host Report Card by March 15th. Only those who return the Report Card are considered to be formal participants. To invite other hosts, simply copy this invitation and the host report card and send them forward. THANKS!!!
