

Mary-Catherine Moran

After almost 30 years in education, Mary Catherine Moran (M.C) maintains an avid enthusiasm for her work. She credits this to the countless number of children, families, classroom teachers and administrators she has been fortunate to meet who have generously shared their perspective over the years. M.C. has been a classroom teacher, a Special Education Training Specialist, and a literacy coach. She is a skilled facilitator, has national and international experience in educational consulting, and promotes a differentiated approach to professional learning. Additionally, she can provide technical assistance and professional learning opportunities on literacy issues such as using data to inform instruction, assessment, exemplary literacy practices and differentiated instruction aligned to learning standards. Her professional experience includes extensive work with migrant children, second language learners, and students with disabilities.
