Academic Writing: Concepts and Connections, by Teresa Thonney; rev. by Kirstin Bone; Dec. 207–209

Action and Ownership to Empower Our Students (What Works for Me); Michelle Shin; Mar. 311–313

Albertson, Kathy; Persistence, Responsibility, and Flexibility in First-Year Writing (Instructional Note); Sept. 71–79

Analysis of Writing Assessment Books Published before and after the Year 2000, An; William Morris, Curt Greve, Elliot Knowles, and Brian Huot; Dec. 118–140

Analyzing Evidence with Rubrics (Inquiry); Holly Hassel; Dec. 202–205

Andersen, Jonathan; Outcomes (Poem); Dec. 179

Blood, Benjamin J.; Demystifying Poetry: Teaching a Process for Writing Haiku (What Works for Me); Sept. 88–89

Blood Countess Tells All, The (Poem); Elizabeth Johnston; Sept. 83

Bokas, Arina; Building a Foundation (What Works for Me); Sept. 89–90

Bone, Kirstin; rev. of Academic Writing: Concepts and Connections, by Teresa Thonney; Dec. 207–209

Broder, Lesley; rev. of Teaching, Learning, and the Holocaust: An Integrative Approach, by Howard Timberg and Ronald Weisberger; Dec. 209–211

Building a Foundation (What Works for Me); Arina Bokas; Sept. 89–90

Calhoon-Dillahunt, Carolyn, Christie Toth, and Patrick Sullivan; A Dubious Method of Improving Educational Outcomes: Accountability and the Two-Year College; May 391–410

Casteel, Jessie, Ben Good, Katherine Highfill, Elizabeth Keating, Rose Pentecost, Nidhi Rajkumar, Rachael Sears, Georgann Ward, and Maurice Wilson; rev. of Redesigning Composition for Multilingual Realities, by Jay Jordan; May 430–431

Chat at the missing water cooler (Poem); Edwina Jordan; Sept. 37

Chemishanova, Polina; Writing across Contexts: Transfer, Composition, and the Sites of Writing, by Kathleen Blake Yancey, Liane Robertson, and Kara Taczak; Mar. 319–320

Composition as Video Performance (What Works for Me); Brian Harrell; Mar. 309–310

Crawley, Kristy Liles; Learning in Practice: Increasing the Number of Hybrid Course Offerings in Community Colleges; Dec. 141–155

Creative Writing and Education, edited by Graeme Harper, rev. by Mitch James; Mar. 323–325

Del Principe, Annie and Rachel Ihara; “I Bought the Book and I Didn’t Need It”:
What Reading Looks like at an Urban Community College; Mar. 229–244

Demystifying Poetry: Teaching a Process for Writing Haiku (What Works for Me); Benjnim J. Blood; Sept. 88–89

Dennihy, Melissa; “Forget What You Learned in High School!”: Bridging the Space between High School and College; Dec. 156–169

Dubious Method of Improving Educational Outcomes, A: Accountability and the Two-Year College; Christie Toth, Carolyn Calhoun-Dillahunt, and Patrick Sullivan; May 391–410

Embracing a Postmodern Genre to Teach Evaluative Writing (What Works for Me); Corinne Cozzaglio Martinez and Sarah Slachter; Mar. 310–311

Emotional Literacy: The Neglected Rhetorical Base (What Works for Me); Craig Wynne; Mar. 314–315

Escobar, Jennifer and Aja Henriquez; Understanding the Process and Criteria by Which Instructors Select Readings (Classroom Research Progress Report); Dec. 195–201

“Forget What You Learned in High School!”: Bridging the Space between High School and College; Melissa Dennihy; Dec. 156–169

Ganeshan, Panshula; rev. of A New Writing Classroom: Listening, Motivation, and Habits of Mind, by Patrick Sullivan; Sept. 93–94

Giordano, Joanne Baird and Holly Hassel; Unpredictable Journeys: Academically At-Risk Students, Developmental Education Reform, and the Two-Year College; May 371–390

Grayson, Mara Lee; Response to “Demystifying Poetry: Teaching a Process to Write Haiku” (Readers Write); Mar. 307–308

Greve, Curt, William Morris, Elliot Knowles, and Brian Huot; An Analysis of Writing Assessment Books Published before and after the Year 2000; Dec. 118–140

Harrell, Brian; Composition as Video Performance (What Works for Me); Mar. 309–310

Hartwig, David W.; Student Plagiarism and First-Year Composition: A Study; Sept. 38–56

Hassel, Holly; Analyzing Evidence with Rubrics (Inquiry); Dec. 202–205

Hassel, Holly; Making Your Work Relevant (Inquiry); Mar. 316–318

Hassel, Holly; Using Rubrics for Assessing Evidence of Student Learning (Inquiry); Sept. 84–87

Hassel, Holly and Joanne Baird Giordano; Unpredictable Journeys: Academically At-Risk Students, Developmental Education Reform, and the Two-Year College; May 371–390

Henriquez, Aja and Jennifer Escobar; Understanding the Process and Criteria by Which Instructors Select Readings (Classroom Research Progress Report); Dec. 195–201

Holmes, Caitlin; rev. of A Rhetoric for Writing Program Administrators, edited by Rita Malenczyk; Sept. 91–92

Howard, Jeffrey; Students as Storytellers: Teaching Rhetorical Strategies through Folktales (Instructional Note); Dec. 170–178

Huot, Brian, William Morris, Curt Greve, and Elliot Knowles; An Analysis of Writing Assessment Books Published before and after the Year 2000; Dec. 118–140

“I Bought the Book and I Didn’t Need It”: What Reading Looks like at an Urban Community College; Annie Del Principe and Rachel Ihara; Mar. 229–244

Ihara, Rachel and Annie Del Principe; “I Bought the Book and I Didn’t Need It”: What Reading Looks like at an Urban Community College; Mar. 229–244
Inspiring Dialogue: Learning to Talk in the English Classroom, by Mary M. Juzwik, Carlin Borsheim-Black, Samantha Caughlin, and Anne Heintz; rev. by Mary Ann Zuccaro; Dec. 206–207

“In This Article, I Argue”: An Analysis of Metatext in Research Article Introductions; Teresa Thonney; May 411–422

Isern, Jeannie, Scott Orme, Angela Rasmussen, Andrea Reid, and Timothy Roe; Thematically Organized English Sections (TOES) at Spokane Community College: Creating Sustainable Faculty Professional Development; May 423–429

James, Mitch; rev. of Creative Writing and Education, edited by Graeme Harper; Mar. 323–324

Johnson, Sarah Z. and Amy Patterson; Teaching Community in the Two-Year College: A Model for Making Groups Work; Mar. 291–306

Johnston, Elizabeth; The Blood Countess Tells All; (Poem); Sept. 83

Jordan, Edwina; Chat at the missing water cooler (Poem); Sept. 37

Kahler, Jason; Response to “Student Plagiarism and First-Year Composition: A Study” (Readers Write); Sept. 80–82

Kenner, Kylie; Student Rationale for Self-Placement into First-Year Composition: Decision Making and Directed Self-Placement; Mar. 274–289

Knowles, Elliot, William Morris, Curt Greve, and Brian Huot; An Analysis of Writing Assessment Books Published before and after the Year 2000; Dec. 118–140

Kuhne, Michael C., Taiyon J. Coleman, Renee DeLong, Kathleen Sheerin DeVore, and Shannon Gibney; The Risky Business of Engaging Racial Equity in Writing Instruction: A Tragedy in Five Acts; May 347–370

Learning in Practice: Increasing the Number of Hybrid Course Offerings in Community Colleges; Kristy Liles Crawley; Dec. 141–155

Lesson from Eeyore, A (Editorial); Jeff Sommers; Dec. 117

Levy, Ronna; rev. of Securing a Place for Reading in Composition, by Ellen C. Carillo; May 432–433

Living Composition; Nancy Sommers; Sept. 32–36

Making Your Work Relevant (Inquiry); Holly Hassel; Mar. 316–318

Man beneath the Pear Tree, The; Adam and Little Eve (Poems); David Starkey; Mar. 290

Marsh, Bill; Reading-Writing Integration in Developmental and First-Year Composition; Sept. 58–70

Martinez, Corinne Cozzaglio and Sarah Slachter; Embracing a Postmodern Genre to Teach Evaluative Writing; (What Works for Me); Mar. 310–311

Morris, William, Curt Greve, Elliot Knowles, and Brian Huot; An Analysis of Writing Assessment Books Published before and after the Year 2000; Dec. 118–140

Murder Question, A (Poem); Steve Straight; Mar. 246

New Voices and… Familiar Voices (Editorial); Jeff Sommers; Sept. 5–6

New Writing Classroom: Listening, Motivation, and Habits of Mind, A, by Patrick Sullivan; rev. by Panshula Ganeshan; Sept. 93–94

Orme, Scott, Jeannie Isern, Angela Rasmussen, Andrea Reid, and Timothy Roe; Thematically Organized English Sections (TOES) at Spokane Community College: Creating Sustainable Faculty Professional Development; May 423–429

Outcomes (Poem); Jonathan Andersen; Dec. 179

Patterson, Amy and Sarah Z. Johnson; Teaching Community in the Two-Year College: A Model for Making Groups Work; Mar. 291–306

Peloso, Vincent; Schrödinger’s Prosody (Poem); Sept. 57

Persistence, Responsibility, and Flexibility in First-Year Writing (Instructional Note); Kathy Albertson; Sept. 71–79

Rasmussen, Angela, Jeannie Isern, Scott Orme, Andrea Reid, and Timothy Roe; Thematically Organized English Sections (TOES) at Spokane Community College: Creating Sustainable Faculty Professional Development; May 423–429
Reading-Writing Integration in Developmental and First-Year Composition; Bill Marsh; Sept. 58–70

Reconsidering Transfer Knowledge at the Community College: Challenges and Opportunities; Howard Tinberg; Sept. 7–31

Redesigning Composition for Multilingual Realities, by Jay Jordan; rev. by Jessie Casteel, Ben Good, Katherine Highfill, Elizabeth Keating, Rose Pentecost, Nidhi Rajkumar, Rachael Sears, Georgann Ward, and Maurice Wilson; May 430–431

Reid, Andrea, Jeannie Isern, Scott Orme, Angela Rasmussen, and Timothy Roe; Thematically Organized English Sections (TOES) at Spokane Community College: Creating Sustainable Faculty Professional Development; May 423–429

Rescued by Punctuation (Poem); Marty Steyer; Sept. 57

Response to “Demystifying Poetry: Teaching a Process to Write Haiku” (Readers Write); Mara Lee Grayson; Mar. 307–308

Response to “Student Plagiarism and First-Year Composition: A Study” (Readers Write); Jason Kahler; Sept. 80–82

Rhetoric for Writing Program Administrators, A, edited by Rita Malenczyk; rev. by Caitlin Holmes; Sept. 91–92

Roe, Timothy, Jeannie Isern, Scott Orme, Angela Rasmussen, and Andrea Reid; Thematically Organized English Sections (TOES) at Spokane Community College: Creating Sustainable Faculty Professional Development; May 423–429

Schrödinger’s Prosody (Poem); Vincent Peloso; Sept. 57

Securing a Place for Reading in Composition, by Ellen C. Carillo; rev. by Ronna Levy; May 432–433

Shin, Michelle; Action and Ownership to Empower Our Students (What Works for Me); Mar. 311–313

Slachter, Sarah and Corinne Cozzaglio Martinez; Embracing a Postmodern Genre to Teach Evaluative Writing (What Works for Me); Mar. 310–311

Sommers, Jeff; A Lesson from Eeyore (Editorial); Dec. 117

Sommers, Jeff; New Voices and . . . Familiar Voices (Editorial); Sept. 5–6

Sommers, Jeff; Teaching, Teaching, Teaching in the Two-Year College (Editorial); May 345–346

Sommers, Nancy; Living Composition; Sept. 32–36

Starkey, David; The Man beneath the Pear Tree; Adam and Little Eve (Poems); Mar. 290

Stephenson, Jeff; Using Vokis to Acclimate Students to Your Online Shell (What Works for Me); Mar. 313–314

Steyer, Marty; Rescued by Punctuation (Poem); Sept. 57

Straight, Steve; Vincent; A Murder Question (Poems); Mar. 245–246

Student Plagiarism and First-Year Composition: A Study; David W. Hartwig; Sept. 38–56

Student Rationale for Self-Placement into First-Year Composition: Decision Making and Directed Self-Placement; Kylie Kenner; Mar. 274–289

Students as Storytellers: Teaching Rhetorical Strategies through Folktales (Instructional Note); Jeffery Howard; Dec. 170–178

Sullivan, Patrick and Christie Toth; Toward Local Teacher-Scholar Communities of Practice: Findings from a National TYCA Survey; Mar. 247–273

Sullivan, Patrick, Christie Toth, and Carolyn Callhoon-Dillahun; A Dubious Method of Improving Educational Outcomes: Accountability and the Two-Year College; May 391–410

Teaching Community in the Two-Year College: A Model for Making Groups Work; Sarah Z. Johnson and Amy Patterson; Mar. 291–306

Teaching, Learning, and the Holocaust: An Integrative Approach, by Howard Tinberg and Ronald Weisberger; rev. by Lesley Broder; Dec. 209–211
Teaching, Teaching, Teaching in the Two-Year College (Editorial); Jeff Sommers; May 345–346

Thematically Organized English Sections (TOES) at Spokane Community College: Creating Sustainable Faculty Professional Development; Jeannie Isern, Scott Orme, Angela Rasmussen, Andrea Reid, and Timothy Roe; May 423–429

Thonney, Teresa; “In This Article, I Argue”: An Analysis of Metatext in Research Article Introductions; May 411–422

Tinberg, Howard; Reconsidering Transfer Knowledge at the Community College: Challenges and Opportunities; Sept. 7–31

Toth, Christie and Patrick Sullivan; Toward Local Teacher-Scholar Communities of Practice: Findings from a National TYCA Survey; Mar. 247–273

Toth, Christie, Carolyn Calhoon-Dillahunt, and Patrick Sullivan; A Dubious Method of Improving Educational Outcomes: Accountability and the Two-Year College; May 391–410

Toward Local Teacher-Scholar Communities of Practice: Findings from a National TYCA Survey; Christie Toth and Patrick Sullivan; Mar. 247–273

Understanding Language Use in the Classroom: A Linguistic Guide for College Educators, by Susan J. Behrens, rev. by Patty Wilde; Mar. 320–323

Understanding the Process and Criteria by Which Instructors Select Readings (Classroom Research Progress Report); Jennifer Escobar and Aja Henriquez; Dec. 195–201

Unpredictable Journeys: Academically At-Risk Students, Developmental Education Reform, and the Two-Year College; Joanne Baird Giordano and Holly Hassel; May 371–390

Using Rubrics for Assessing Evidence of Student Learning (Inquiry); Holly Hassel; Sept. 84–87

Using Vokis to Acclimate Students to Your Online Shell (What Works for Me); Jeff Stephenson; Mar. 313–314

Vincent (Poem); Steve Straight; Mar. 245

Wilde, Patty; rev. of Understanding Language Use in the Classroom: A Linguistic Guide for College Educators, by Susan J. Behrens; Mar. 320–323

Writing across Contexts: Transfer, Composition, and the Sites of Writing, by Kathleen Blake Yancey, Liane Robertson, and Kara Taczak, rev. by Polina Chemishanova; Mar. 319–320

Wynne, Craig; Emotional Literacy: The Neglected Rhetorical Base (What Works for Me); Mar. 314–315

Zuccaro, Mary Ann; rev. of Inspiring Dialogue: Learning to Talk in the English Classroom, by Mary M. Juzwik, Carlin Borsheim-Black, Samantha Caughlin, and Anne Heintz; Dec. 206–207
The Desire for Literacy
Writing in the Lives of Adult Learners
Lauren Rosenberg

Print Stock Number 10812
$34 member/$36 nonmember
ebook eStock Number 10829
$30 member/$32 nonmember

The literate tend to take their literacy and all it affords them for granted; they are equally likely to assume that nonliterate people do not know, think, or understand in the ways they do, that the silence of nonliteracy is both intrinsic and deserved. But as Lauren Rosenberg illustrates, marginalized adult learners are quite capable of theorizing about their position in society, questioning dominant ideas, disrupting them, and challenging traditional literacy narratives in American culture. In The Desire for Literacy: Writing in the Lives of Adult Learners, Rosenberg takes up the imperative established by community literacy researchers to engage with people in communities outside of formal schooling in an effort to understand adult learners’ motivations and desires to become more literate when they choose reading and writing for their own purposes. Focusing on the experiences, knowledge, and perspectives of four adult learners, she examines instances in which participants resist narratives of oppression, particularly when they become authors. Rosenberg’s qualitative study demonstrates that these adult learners are already knowledgeable individuals who can teach academics about how literacy operates, not only through service-learning lenses of reflection and action, but also more radically in terms of how students, instructors, and scholars of composition think about the meanings and purposes of literacy.

To order, visit our website: https://secure.ncte.org/store/ or call 877-369-6283.